

If two lines are perpendicular, then their gradients will multiply together to give: